Re Item IV

Independent claims 25 and 26 and claims 27, 28 lack unity 'a posteriori' in the 2. meaning of Rule 13.1 PCT because the subject-matter of independent claim 1 is not new, and, therefore, there cannot exist a single general inventive concept between independent claims 1, 25 and 26. Claims 27 and 28 depend on independent claim 26.

Re Item V

- The present application does not meet the requirements of Article 33(1) PCT, because the 3. subject-matter of claim 1, 2, 3, 4, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14 and 23 is not novel in the sense of Article 33(2) PCT.
- Independent claim 1 3.1
- 3.1.1 Document D1 discloses an apparatus (see fig. 6 in D1) for controlling underwater equipment, comprising attachment means (35, 47, 45, 46) for attaching underwater equipment (37, 42) to the apparatus; and at least one member (36) for generating positive or negative lift.
 - Consequently, the subject-matter of independent claim 1 is not new.
- 3.1.2 Document D2 also discloses (see fig. 1 in D2) all the technical features of independent claim 1. It can be clearly seen that the feature a (Wanne) is fully capable for generating positive lift. Therefore, the subject-matter of independent claim 1 is also not novel in the light of the disclosure of document D2.
- The additional features of dependent claims 2, 3, 4, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14 and 23 are 3.2 also known from document D1, so that the subject-matter of these claims is not new. These claims do therefore also not meet the requirements of Art. 33(2) PCT.
- Dependent claims 5, 6, 15 to 22 and 24 do not contain any additional features which, in 4. combination with the features of any claim to which they refer, involve an inventive step with respect to the cited state of the art. The reasons therefore are that the additional features of the said claims are either directly known from cited documents in the present proceedings or are a combination of features obvious to the man skilled in the art in consideration of the disclosure of the cited prior art or they concern only minor modifications which lie within the normal practice of the man skilled in the art.
